TOLD HER TO GO, SAYS MAN IN $30,000 SUIT

Watertown Citizen, 71, Declares He Didn't Promise Woman Half of Estate

John R. Clarendon, seventy-one years old, of No. 55 Phillips street, Watertown, who is being sued for $30,000 on alleged breach of contract by Mrs. Fannie Hall, sixty years old, denied today that there was any contract to break.

In the papers filed with her suit in the Cambridge Superior Court Mrs. Hall says that last June she and her seventy-year-old daughter went to live with Clarendon, with the understanding that she was to act as his housekeeper and that the daughter was to pay it weekly as board.

In addition to this Mrs. Hall alleges that she was to receive $2 a week from Clarendon and that he promised her that if she made him comfortable for the rest of his life he would leave her half of his property.

According to Clarendon today he engaged her to act as housekeeper, merely on a weekly basis. At the end of the first week he found the arrangement would not work satisfactorily, but did not dismiss the woman until October. At that time he paid her the money due her for a week's work and told her to go.

According to his story, she told him that she had been advised by her attorney to claim $10,000 compensation for having nursed him during his recovery from injuries sustained in a fall, but that she was willing to compromise on $500. He refused to pay and she left. No date has been set for the trial of the case.

"Foot Candle Meter" to Save Eyes of Millions

By Associated Press.
New York, Feb. 10.—Through the general use of a simply constructed and inexpensive mechanism known as a "foot candle meter," the eyes of millions of people may be saved from affliction due to improper illumination, says Alfred D. Flinn, secretary of the engineering foundation.

The general use of the instrument is urged upon all employers and in schools. The "foot candle meter," the statement explains, "enables an unscientific observer to gain an approximate knowledge of the value of an illumination by simple inspection and has directed attention toward the importance of correct illumination."

ASKS $50,000 OF JAP OPPOSITION PARTY WANTS TO LIMIT ARMY

Declares It Should Be Cut in Half and a New Defense Policy Drafted

Lawrence J. Johnson of Brookline today filed in the Suffolk Superior Court a suit against the Boston wool firm of English & O'Brien, asking for judgment in the sum of $50,000. This amount, he alleges, is due him for managing the firm's business while William A. English and John H. O'Brien were in the Greenfield jail on the charge of defrauding the Federal government on their income tax returns.

Johnson was the firm's sales manager at the time English and O'Brien, president and treasurer, respectively, were sent to jail. He says that while he was in control he disposed of more than $2,000,000 worth of wool. He declares that both English and O'Brien realize that "assessing and maintaining the credit and reputation of the defendant corporation required more than ordinary skill, tact and ability, under the circumstances."

In addition to their conviction on the charge of committing Federal income tax frauds, English and O'Brien were indicted by a Suffolk County Grand Jury on charges of defrauding the State in the same matter. The indictment was disposed of while they were still in jail when it appeared that they had paid their full taxes and collected taxes, to the State collector of taxes.

HEAR ARGUMENT ON ALLEN PLEA OF ABATEMENT

Judge Fessenden Takes Under Advice Question of Jury Trial

After hearing arguments by both sides lasting more than two hours, Judge Fessenden in Superior Court today took under advisement the question of whether the plea submitted filed by Attorney-General J. Weston Allen to quash the indictment charging him with conspiracy to defraud a client should be tried by a jury.

The plea brings up for the first time in fifty years in Massachusetts the question of a jury trial for a preliminary question in a criminal case. Allen charges that the indictment against him was the result of undue influence and coercion on the part of the District Attorney.

GRAND JURY ASSAILED

At the hearing of arguments today Assistant District Attorney Daniel M. Lyons, who appeared for the District Attorney's office, argued that the court should hesitate at this time to take the case under advisement, as it would be construed as an infringement upon the rights of the Grand Jury or the people as represented by that body.

The charges, he asserted, "are nothing short of a charge that the grand jury were guilty of misconduct in view of the fact that the Attorney-General charged that the indictment was based not upon evidence, but on fear of the District Attorney's office." He respectfully asked the court for the right to have the issue tried before a jury, so as to safeguard the rights of the people.

QUESTION OF INFLUENCE.

Former Attorney-General Herbert Parker, appearing for Attorney-General Allen, said he wanted the question by Lyons that the charges of undue influence as set forth in the plea in abatement referred to the Grand jury of the members of the Grand jury.

The sole issue, he said, was whether undue influence had been a factor in the handling down of the indictment.

The hearing of the case, which had been set for Monday morning, was postponed by order of the court, pending the decision of Judge Fessenden upon the issue raised.

EDISON CO. TO MAKE FURTHER RATE CUTS of the current generated is used by electric customers.

Effective March 1, the Edison Company announced, it will reduce its "Schedule A" rate to "ten cents per kilowatt hour by cancelling the charges due on the coal clause and the 4 per cent increase." And it bases conditions continue to improve the company hopes and expects to "make a further reduction to nine and a half cents on September 1 next." Since June 30, 1920, the rate has been ten and a half cents plus the coal clause.

The reduction, announced by President C. L. Edgar as a letter to the Edison Company, will reduce the rate on the average household's bill to $1.18. In other words, if a household used 35 kilowatt hours electricity in a month, it was charged $4.25 for the electricity; if it used the coal clause and 18 cents under the other schedule, it would be charged $4.25 for the electricity and 18 cents under the coal clause.

The pre-war "Schedule A" rate of 10 cents per kilowatt hour was ten cents per kilowatt hour. This was increased on October 1, 1918, by the application of the coal clause charge, and on November 1, 1918, by the addition of the 4 per cent increase, the rate became eleven cents. When the 18 per cent was reduced to 10 per cent, so that the rate since June 30, 1920, has been ten and a half cents plus the coal clause.

WERE ADVISED TO WAIT.

After pointing out that "during the last two or three months, for the first time since the Armistice, business conditions have seemed to be improving steadily and permanent peace," President Edgar in his letter said: "Although Mr. Hill (Arthur D. Hill, Boston Corporation Counsel) has stated in his opinion the company ought not to change its rate during the pendency of a rate case, and although there might be a decided advantage to the company in raising the pending rate now as an excuse for not reducing rates at the present time, still it must be borne in mind that the company has increased rates when it found it necessary to do so although a rate case was pending, so that consistency and fairness to customers would require to make reductions when the rate case was pending."

After announcing the reductions, the Edison Co. goal.

"Prospect as to the future are uncertain, as the war has proved. But the company believes that business conditions will continue to improve; that it will be successful in showing the department that the city of Boston should pay the regular rates existing rates, and that the department will approve of applying existing rates to customers who are now standing upon their contracts."

"AND THE CITY (should be) 'AND' the city of Boston should pay the regular rates existing rates, and that the department will approve of applying existing rates to customers who are now standing upon their contracts."

HINT NEW LOVE CAUSED GIRL TO DROP SUIT

$25,000 Allegation Action of Frances Panell Settled; Friends Expect Wedding

Did the dawn of a new love to the heart of pretty Frances Panell of Lynn, full-blooded descendant of an Indian chieftain, cause her to lose all interest in her $25,000 allegation of affection suit against the parents of the man she once termed "my sweetheart?"

This is the question that friends and acquaintances of the girl are asking today, following the unexpected and abrupt announcement that the case, in which Mr. and Mrs. Ashington W. Pinson of Newell were named defendants, had been "settled."

CASE IS CLOSED.

Beyond the mere statement that the case is closed, attorneys for the plaintiff and defendant will not discuss the matter. Miss Panell herself cannot be reached. But some of her friends, who had followed her court struggle with affectionate interest, are not at all backward in intimating that the girl has forgotten her alleged broken engagement in the joy and happiness of a new love. It is even hinted in some quarters that wedding announcements will not be long in making an appearance.

Frances Wainwright, the attorney who was handling Miss Panell's legal interests, would not state whether or not she had received any money by the settlement which was made. But his remarks are believed to bear out the theory that the girl is about to be married.

"Miss Panell was not impelled to make this settlement by any thought of money," he said. "There was another consideration in her mind—the thought of what would, in the long run, be best for her. Money is not the most important thing in the world. It is not so important, shall we say, as freedom from sensational publicity."

GIRL AT "BEST CURE."

Miss Panell is said to be out of town at a "rest cure."

She filed her suit in June, 1920, alleging that an engagement with Henry L. Pinson, war veteran and prominent in South Shore social circles, had been broken by the interference of his parents. At the time she told an interviewer that her "Indian heart cannot forget what has happened."

And now, ask her friends—has a new love brought her peace, even forgiveness, to the heart that she once thought would never soften?

SAYS "RUM SHIP" PAPERS WERE SEIZED BY MISTAKE

New Bedford, Feb. 10.—(Feature of the ship's papers of the schooner "Hannibal," which gained fame as a "rum ship" by United States Customs officials who boarded her here, was a mistake, according to Samuel Horvitz, agent for the vessel, who said that he had been advised by the officials that they would be returned to the vessel.

She was about to sail for the Cape Verde Islands. The liquor cargo aboard of her when she first arrived here was seized at that time.

ARREST BOSTON MAN IN N. Y. AS FUGITIVE

Mulveny, Accused of Stock Frauds, Caught at Grand Central Station

New York, Feb. 10.—Detective Sergeant August Mayer and Greer Brown of this city and Inspector Connelley of the Boston police arrested Wilfred Mulveny, thirty-three years old, a stock broker of No. 144 West Seventy-second street, at the Grand Central Terminal, on a warrant charging him with being a fugitive from justice.

Mulveny is alleged to have received more than forty complaints by stock manipulators of more than $70,000. When arrested in admitted his identity. He remarked, when arrested, "Now I will have peace at mind," according to the police.

Mulveny had offices at No. 18 State street, No. 141 Devonshire street and No. 51 Mills street, Boston. The police may be lived in Brooklyn before coming here three weeks ago.

His lawyer, according to the detective, was to produce Mulveny in a week.

Says Life of a Fireman Doesn't Pay in Attleboro

Attleboro, Feb. 10.—Being a member of Fire 4 isn't a very profitable job, according to Captain John B. Paquette, who has resigned rather than submit to a physical examination required by the Civil Service Commissioners.

In his letter of resignation Captain Paquette pointed out that his earnings to Boston and return would be $220, his base of a day's pay would be $5, and his dinner would cost $1, making a total of $1230. Inasmuch as members of the company are required to provide their own rubber goods, Captain Paquette has figured out that the $12 per year which the job pays does not warrant his continuance as a fireman.

When he failed to appear a fugitive warrant was issued.

Held on Liquor Charge

Worcester, Feb. 10.—Julius Feltz, of No. 108 Dorchester street, was held in $500 for appearance in Federal Court, Boston, on a charge of transportation of moonshine by U. S. Commissioner Raymond Fletcher.

COLLEGE GIRLS INVITE BURGLAR TO CALL

Placards Welcoming Night-Prowler Appear in Dormitory Windows

New York, Feb. 10.—No men to the girl students of Whittier Hall, Columbia University dormitory, flung lightly up and down the halls at night evinced only in crepe de chine placards to talk over the railing in "toll-free-hopping."

"They hug their room, for a night, a burglar, proves the dimmed orders. Six times within the last eight days the nightly visitor has broken into the residents on Andover avenue."

Thrilled by the spirit of adventure many girls have changed their rooms in the hope of getting one which will be burgled, while others, disappointed because they could not catch him, have tacked placards on their windows and doors. Among them are: "Men Wanted," "Burglar Welcome," "Anything that goes suit," "We invite you in," "We are sure to come in."

Theft of U. S. Films by Foreign Firms Being Probed

New York, Feb. 10.—A move against the illegal duplication of American moving picture films, which is costing producers here almost $1,000,000 a year, was disclosed here when it became known that the United States Department of Justice has begun investigation of the traffic that steals the ideas and the films of American firms.

Thrift of American films is carried on in a greater degree in Japan than in any other foreign land.

Besides the Department of Justice, motion picture men have enlisted the support of the State Department, both Houses of Congress and of the New York State Legislature.

500 MORE LAID OFF AT FORE RIVER PLANT

1,000 Workers Already Thrown Out of Jobs Following Arms Limitation Decision

"Five hundred more workmen were laid off today at the Fore River plant of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation at Quincy, as a result of the decision of the limitation of armaments conference at Washington. This is in addition to the five hundred laid off Thursday. Federal officials at the yard were notified to stop work on many big ships.

Discharge of the 1,000 men brings the number of those employed at the plant from 2,500 to 1,500. It is understood that with the completion of several small jobs more men will be made idle. Samuel W. Waldman, general manager, declared that unless new orders come in before Fall the entire plant will have to be shut down.

Those employed on several submarines and scout cruisers were not affected by the order, as those types of ships are not disturbed by the decision of the arms conference. The battleship Lexington is under construction but she will be so soon.

DRY GOODS MEN HEAR EXPERTS ON ECONOMY

"Store Control" Is Discussed;
Secretary Wallace Speaks
at the Banquet

New York, Feb. 10.—Henry C. Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture, was the principal speaker at the banquet of the National Retail Dry Goods Association, in session here.

Today's proceedings were under the chairmanship of Richard H. Wehr, the association's president, and president also of the J. L. Hudson Company of Detroit, Mich.

At the morning session there was a convention meeting of the advertising group, comprising 400 advertising managers and experts of leading stores in the United States. Their deliberations were so directly on the chief aims of the convention that half-day's session in the hearing of the members of the parent association had been deemed necessary.

"What the Advertising Group Can Do" was outlined by Frank A. Black, advertising manager for William F. Lewis's Sons Company of Boston, who is chairman of the convention. Frank Irving Fletcher, a well-known writer of advertising copy, discussed the topic, "Individuality in Advertising."

CONTROL AND FINANCE. The afternoon topic was "Store Control and Finance," a major feature of which was the report on the standardization program of the Controller's Congress. The controller has charge of all the accounting activities of the store. It is the most scientific expert on store finance and accounting matter.

Ever since 1916 this country's most expert store controllers have been endeavoring to develop a system of standardization of accounts that should be applicable to small and large stores alike. Its successful accomplishment promised unprecedented economy in management, not merely for the great department stores where the sales run into the millions, and the employees into the thousands, but also for the dry goods and general merchandise stores that rely on the head bookkeeper for control of finance and accounting and for these other smaller stores in which the merchant himself bears their responsibility.

It means what is more, a universal lowering of retail prices, because such internal economies cannot but be exclusively to the advantage of the store offering them.

REPORTS DATED. The reports presented at the convention came from Ray Iglehart, secretary and treasurer of the Hall Brothers Company of Cleveland, Ohio, and C. E. Appleton of the Laddie and Koch Company, Toledo, chairman respectively of the standardization committee of the Controller's Congress and the National Retail Dry Goods Association.

T. J. Blake of Warrenburg's Dry Goods Company of Grand Rapids, Mich., presented the financial statement of the Standardization Committee. Under the chairmanship of the Standardization Committee of the Controller's Congress and the National Retail Dry Goods Association.

MEXICAN PROBE DELAYED BY RUMORS

Falsely Report on Revolt Used to Hinder Investigation of Oil Scandal

Universal Service.
Washington, Feb. 10.—Fabricated reports of a new revolutionary movement against the Obregon Mexican government were employed to further delay the proposed Congressional inquiry into the oil scandal.

The fabric of the reported movement of General Francisco Murguía and his "army" against the Mexican border was established. The General is back in San Antonio.

His "movement" is known to have been a sinister gesture intended to bolster the opposition of the Obregon administration. General Murguía's army consisted of fourteen men.

No sooner had General Murguía and his army of fourteen men set out than Washington was flooded with reports of a revolution against President Obregon. It was pictured as an extensive movement that would enlist the sympathies of many Mexican groups that never have been able to reconcile their political or military differences.

Questions were being asked here learning on any possible meaning the collapse of the reported Murguía movement has in light of the fact that the oil interests have said they were assured there would be no investigation. Universal Service was informed that the scheming intrigue has been headed in promises of reward to persons who might assist in the event of intervention. Not only did the oil groups endeavor to foment revolutions, but it is known that at least one American in Mexico has been assured liberal patronage if the United States assumes control of Mexican affairs.

Says It Acts With Unusual Speed—Loosens the Mucus—Relieves the Irritation and Stops the Cough

Costs Next to Nothing—for a Big Supply.

Whenever anyone in my family catches cold and begins to cough, and it doesn't stop me many minutes to all such troubles in double quick time.

I have used it enough water to make one half pint—each all there is to it. I can guarantee you—the first spoonful you add directly on the membrane of the throat and nose, the itching begins to disappear—comes the asthma moves and often in 24 hours every trace of the cough that bothered you is gone.

It's really remarkable how this home made remedy, when used in the manner I have shown you, can be so helpful to thousands of catchers of colds.—Advertisement.

REFUSES TO TAX BANK CHECKS FOR BONUS

Committee Decides Against an Increase in First or Second Class Postage

By Associated Press.
Washington, Feb. 10.—Reaching a final agreement on the post office bonus tax program, a House Ways and Means subcommittee divided today against a tax on bank checks.

The program was not made public but it was stated authoritatively that with the exception of the bank checks it was "substantially the same" as that given out last evening.

The program included:

- One cent a gallon on gasoline estimated to yield $10,000,000.
- Twenty-five cents per horsepower on automobiles, $20,000,000.
- Five dollars per $1,000 on real estate transfers, $20,000,000.
- Increased documentary stamps with the rate on the transfer of stocks and bonds at one tenth of one per cent, $4,000,000.
- Double the present ten per cent tax on admissions where the charge exceeds 25 cents.
- An increase of fifty cents a thousand on cigarettes, $2,000,000.
- An increase of two cents on chewing and smoking tobacco, $5,000,000.

Members of the committee declined to say what tax if any had been substituted for the check levy, but it was stated that the committee had decided against any increase in stamp on the first or second class postage rates. Increased parcel post rates were under consideration, but whether they were approved was not made known.

Chairman Fordney said the program agreed upon would be submitted to Republican leaders on the Senate Finance Committee and to the agreement between the two committees.

Fresh From Paris Latest Word From Marie Suzanne

Paris, France.
The EARLY Spring outdoor event is an inspiration to the sports costume out of which comes the latest little coat all on its own, and the blouse with matching skirt. Black monkey fur makes the collar and cuffs and edges a short coat of Pateley cloth that is perfectly plain, lightly striped and tied at the natural waistline with a string girdle. This is worn over a slip dress of a bright color, a WOOLLY Rodier fabric, of the Paris Best Bridal fabric, which was rushed there after being found unsuitable in the department of the Brookline police station. She had tried to die, but died "covered up" by saying the girl had "inspired pneumonia."

The blouse of the "new" was learned today, went to the aid of the girl within the past twenty-four hours and were secured. Black offered to make restitutions and give her a fine.

In court three "girl friends" went over the girl's plight.

Miss Norris was the comes from wealthy people near Washington, attended a fashionable finishing school and received $5 from her parents a month.

"I wish they would electrocute me. Then I would be able to stop stealing," police say she told them.

Admits Theft. Sorensen Aid of Rich and Women Cry Over
Her Plight

Marie Norris, the "College Raffles" girl, who prefers death to disgrace, and who made an intellectual attempt at suicide, is to spend two weeks under observation at the Boston Psychopathic Hospital.

In the Brookline District Court today the girl pleaded guilty to thefts from three girls in a fashionable Brookline private school.

Judge Charles F. Perkins continued the case and ordered the girl to be put under observation. He expressed the opinion that she is a victim of kleptomania.

Three girl students of Miss Choate's School in Brookline appeared against the girl. They were Gertha Gibson, Marjorie Cull and Eleanor Hough. They testified they had been robbed of small sums of money by the "raffles" girl.

Miss Norris was taken into court from the First Parish Unitarian Church, where she was rushed there after being found unconscious in the department of the Brookline police station. She had tried to die, but died "covered up" by saying the girl had "inspired pneumonia."

CELLARS FLOODED AS TRUCK HITS HYDRANT

Several cellars on Chelsea street, East Boston, between Porter and Marion streets, were flooded today.

An auto truck, owned by the Standard Egg Company, Fulton street, struck a hydrant, breaking it off at the base. A "spray" thirty feet high, threw a spray of water on the fronts of the nearby buildings. The truck was operated by Harry Johnson, No. 80 Walnut street, Chelsea. The driver, according to the police, cut the breaks on the hard, causing the car to skid, the rear end landing against the hydrant. An excited citizen, hearing the crash and seeing the gush of water, pulled the fire alarm, lighting check it with a lamp owned by Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

THE time it took to reach the hydrant was not long, but the water was so high that it was impossible to get the truck out. The water was so high that it was impossible to get the truck out. The water was so high that it was impossible to get the truck out.

SCIENCE BILL IN EQUITY IS DISMISSED

Directors' Action Dropped by Consent of All Parties

The bill in equity brought by the directors of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, against Herbert W. Russell et al., trustees of the Christian Science Publishing Society, was today dismissed by Judge Jenney in the Superior Court, with the consent of all parties.

In the suit the directors had sought an accounting, alleging mismanagement by the trustees.

The church, it was charged, had been deprived of revenue solely because, owing to the attitude and conduct of the trustees, the newspaper had ceased to be the organ of the church and had been used for the personal interests of the trustees.

The trustees also were accused of secretly attempting in England and in other European countries to obtain the exclusive registration and legal monopoly of the name, "The Christian Science Publishing Society," Boston, U. S. A., sole publisher of all authorized Christian Science literature, as established by Mary Baker Eddy. "The court was asked to enjoin the trustees from using any name other than 'The Christian Science Publishing Society'."

TRIES TO ATTACH CORCORAN'S PROPERTY

Scott W. Paul, Former Clerk of Accused Attorney, Asks
Receiver Be Named

An attempt to reach the property in Massachusetts of William J. Corcoran, who turned State's evidence in the Boston black and white case, was made today by Attorney William H. Garland, acting as counsel for Scott W. Paul of Methuen.

Attorney Garland asked Judge Jenney in Superior Court for the appointment of a receiver for Corcoran's property in this State.

It developed that Corcoran had not been notified of the proceeding and the matter went over for a week. Meanwhile a notification will be sent to Corcoran at Port Chester, N. Y.

Corcoran was confined for trial in his suit against Victor A. Seaton of Methuen for alienation of the affections of Mrs. Paul. The suit was set out of court. It was reported that Seaton turned $45,000 over to Corcoran and that Corcoran gave $4,000 to the client, Paul.

The latter has a suit pending in Essex County to get the balance from Corcoran.

Corcoran's only known property in Massachusetts is a house in Jamaica Plain. It is mortgaged and Paul seeks to reach the equity.

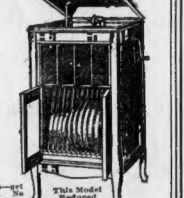

SURE WAY TO GET RID OF Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to eliminate it. This is done entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvens, apply it at night when retiring, use enough to moisten scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely remove it entirely. Destroy every single grain and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have. And, too, that all itching and itching of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and will feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvens at any drug store. It has never been known to fail.—Advertisement.

DANCE Dead Woman!

The girl danced as though life tossed her in its arms; round and slim, sweet-lipped, teeth like gems for laughter, flame in her veins, a magnolia petal skin.

Madness was smeared broad across his face. His eyes flared. He no longer peered at reality. He stared straight into the heart of hell. He pulled out his revolver and his harsh voice spoke. "Dance, you dead woman—dance!"

And Bonita, rising to her toes, as though lifted by the muzzle of his gun, danced between the dead man and the madman as she had never danced before.

How great is the opportunity to make mistakes in connection with such affairs is well illustrated by the recent history of efforts to win profits out of the foreign commerce.

42-LB. LYNX HED IN ALFRED, ME., MAN'S TRAP

Had to Kill the Animal With Gun; Pelt Looks Like a Tiger's

Alfred, Me., Feb. 10.—The large wild animal taken in this vicinity in the memory of local hunters was captured by M. A. Schwarts of Alfred, who found a lynx securely held by the forward jaws in one of the traps which he had set in the woods near his house. The creature was ferocious, and not until he had fired a heavy charge into the animal with his shotgun did Schwartz dare to approach the trap.

The wild creature four and one-half feet from tip to tip and weighed forty-two pounds.

The chances are, of course, that there are many more who have written in the book but have not yet written to express their appreciation of this Boston American feature and to declare their intention to "stand in a few minutes." The Test Editor hopes that every friend of his will find at least one bright, clear, congenial soul to join with him in the contest. Light Rates Reduced

And the Boston American's Fight Will Be Continued

The Edison Electric Light Company announces a reduction in its lighting rates.

It says that this reduction has nothing to do with the fight for a reduction which the city of Boston and the BOSTON AMERICAN have been making against it.

We are entirely willing that the company should get what ever credit anybody wants to give it for this reduction as a voluntary reduction.

When Arthur D. Hill, corporation counsel, was asked what he thought of the company's statement, that it was not affected by the fight now being waged against it, he said, that it reminded him of the answer which the spy in the "Tale of Two Cities" made to the question whether or not he had ever been kicked down stairs. "No," he said, "I never was kicked down stairs but I was once kicked at the top of the stairs and fell down the stairs voluntarily."

The fight which the AMERICAN is making in behalf of nearly 700,000 people in this community will be continued until the company is still further chastened. In the meantime, we wish to congratulate the City Council and ex-Mayor Peters for the help they so freely gave, not only in money, but in the able services of Arthur D. Hill, toward the fight which is just warming up. He has not only fought for the city's interests as an independent contestant but he has been a loyal associate of Mr. MacFarland, counsel for the AMERICAN, wherever the interests of their client were identical. The people of Boston will be sure that if he is allowed to continue to represent the city in this great fight.

Minority Rights Attacked

Arkwright Club Urges Legislature to Give More Power to Courts at Expense of Small Stockholders

Brother Garcelon is at it again for the Arkwright Club. He is urging the Legislature to once more pass a law taking away from the small stockholder a vital right, giving more power to the big stockholder and to the management of corporations which are controlled through proxies, and, of course, giving more power to the courts. No new law would be fashionable in this State these days which did not contain some scheme to give more power to our judges.

The Arkwright Club's scheme is simple enough. Under the law in this State today and in forty-four other States of the Union, a stockholder, being a part owner of the concern, can examine the list of his fellow-owners of the corporation whenever he considers it necessary to do so, and can also read the minutes and the by-laws of his corporation whenever he feels it necessary.

Now it is proposed by the Arkwright Club, and of course by the big corporations controlled through proxies, that a minority stockholder shall not have the right to find out who the other stockholders are, and perhaps to tell them how badly the corporation is being run, nor shall he have the right to inspect the record of the meetings of the corporation unless some judge says it is wise for him to do so. Just why a judge should be asked to stick his nose into a stockholder's relations with his company, or should be allowed to tell a stockholder that he is wrong in wanting to know something about the business or something about the records of the company, we cannot understand.

Of course, we can understand perfectly well why gentlemen who control our corporations, mostly through proxies, do not want middlemen, inquiring stockholders, who by temperament, or for some special information which has come to them concerning the company, happen to be from Missouri, to have access to the names and addresses of the other stockholders or to the records of the company. Such inquisitive gentlemen, who will not take everything for granted, can make a lot of trouble for high-handed corporation managers who regard the stockholders' property as their own private concern.

Higher Pay for Our Judges

Bill Requiring That Pensions Be Relinquished in Consideration of Increased Salaries Should Be Opposed

The bill which proposes to require our judges to relinquish their right to a pension in consideration of a slightly increased salary was opposed this week by a number of lawyers.

It ought to be opposed not only by lawyers but by laymen. It is a penurious but uneconomical scheme. There is no worse kind of saving at the spigot and wasting at the bungole than underpaying the judges, or, for the sake of economy, making their position undesirable to the best men in the State.

Our judges are among the hardest working of all the working men in the Commonwealth. During waking hours they are never off duty. No judge can lay aside absolutely the care and responsibility of his office on the stroke of a gong. The trial judge is obliged to examine the law and to consider the facts of the cases on trial before him long after court is adjourned. He never ceases to worry lest he make some error in the conduct of the trial which may work injustice to one of the parties and may bring about his humiliation in the appellate court. Every trial judge feels humiliated when his decisions are reversed. He doesn't like to think of it, and he works hard long after hours to prevent it.

The Supreme Court is notoriously a hard-worked body of men. They have, altogether, through their own fault and through the fault of fawning lawyers, too much responsibility. But while by taxation we submit to this overgrown organization we must have it exercised by the ablest men we can get.

Compared with the increased salary and labor of our judges, their income, even at the respectable salary, is very much too small, when we consider the profits of business and even of the lawyers whom we would want on the Supreme Bench to carry its responsibility.

There is considerable inclination among those who do not like the disposition of the court to assume political power, to attack it wherever it presents a target. But this is a poor policy. If the judges have taken on more power than judges ought to have, it is merely because human nature is as we ought to expect it to work. The fault is more in the rest of the community than in the judges.

Mr. Martin Hays asked a witness if he felt that giving the judges a pension was justified in view of the fact that 600 half-starved soldiers had asked for work the day before. It was natural for Mr. Hays to think of the contrast, and yet the answer must be that the two things have nothing whatever to do with each other. There is no more necessity for these 600 soldiers being without work and without the comforts of life than there is for the judges to be underpaid or to be denied a pension which they ought to have.

British Workers Are Alarmed

LONDON, Feb. 10.—Grave political and industrial action is expected in Great Britain as the result of a wage reduction movement which has found ready headway since the inception of the year 1922.

Unrest is increasing among workers as the result of wage reductions, according to reports received in labor circles here. General conditions of unemployment and depleted union funds have not been remedied, but despite these facts a wave of bitterness has followed the efforts of British employers to reduce wages, and it is expected that this feeling may lead to a political and industrial situation which will bear with great weight upon the immediate future of the British Empire.

Authentic statistics gathered by labor experts here show that the cost of living remains at more than 90 per cent. above the 1914 pre-war standard, while the actual earnings of hundreds of thousands have already been reduced to the pre-war basis.

The coming agricultural season's success is already threatened by wage reductions which have been put into effect by farmers throughout the country. The wages of over a hundred thousand farm laborers have already been reduced to 20 shillings a week, or approximately 87. This action has been followed by continuous joint sessions of the Agricultural Workers' Union and the Workers' Union for the East of England, which have been making a wage cutting movement.

Although labor officials will make no predictions at the present time, it would not be surprising if the spring planting season finds British agriculturists faced with labor shortage which may develop into a critical labor movement by harvest time.

China for U. S. in Any Clash With Japan

By A. ESTELLE PADDOCK, Universal Service Special Correspondent.

TIANJIN, Feb. 10.—(By Mail).—VIII China Jan. Japan.

That is the question that I have put during the past two months to men in China in official positions, such as that of Secretary to the Foreign Office in Peking and the Treasurer of Shanghai Province. The reply is an emphatic "No."

In other words, I have come to see during my present trip in China that the "yellow peril" which exists today is a peril practically confined to the Japanese islands. This is not saying what it may be in the distant future, but that future depends much on the outcome of the Pacific conference.

Color Won't Unite Them

There was a "then," said Treasurer Chang, who is also president of the Bank of China, in Shanghai, "when China would have gladly and confidently joined hands with Japan. That day is passed. We have seen the Japanese in Korea; we have seen how they deal with the Koreans, and the Koreans are now in Japan. The Chinese have no confidence in the word of Japan when she calls for an alliance of yellow races. She does not know how to deal with the yellow race. The Chinese would never unite with Japan."

My opinion, if the present matters are rightly decided, the races will naturally keep their own boundaries. The Chinese have never had a thought of assisting Japan in her war against the white race.

Stars and Stripes

Many a young man can support his new wife in the manner in which she is accustomed at home, but she won't stand for it.

terminating or uprooting the white race.

"The Chinese have seen to the bottom of the Japanese heart. They have watched Japan in her colonies. They have seen her arrogance to the Chinese in Shanghai. They have seen her oppression and practice cruelty on those she should have helped. She has professed to be a friend of China, but she has not done one one-hundredth of the good for China and her people that she has done for Japan."

"The Chinese have had experience in antagonistic races. They consider righteousness above race questions. They look to America to help them through this time when China is helpless before the aggression of her powerful but unscrupulous neighbor."

The Japanese are stirring up trouble for the Chinese in both North and South China. When affairs in Peking are going smoothly by the hand of Japan appears to make trouble. Japan is willing to furnish arms to both north and south in order to foment trouble. Every small grievance is enlarged to give opportunity for making trouble. If they cannot gain control peacefully, they stir up trouble. The Japanese are fully persuaded of their own efficiency. They quite sincerely think themselves qualified to speak for China. The Chinese for which they would volunteer to speak for China. The Chinese for which they would volunteer to speak for China. The Chinese for which they would volunteer to speak for China.

Once-Overs

DO YOU WATCH YOUR CHILD'S SCHOOLS? Have you a correct idea of what your young girl or boy is doing in high school—whether he or she has enough to do to keep out of mischief?

Do you go over occasionally and have a talk with special teachers and get their point of view in regard to the studies which the child should be doing? Do you try to fill a certain period of time in recreation, or do you trust to luck and the school heads to do the best thing for your son or your daughter?

If you do not take the trouble to talk with them or to interview the superintendent and those in charge of studies, how can you expect that these persons are going to do more than you would for your own child? Too much is expected of the teacher and too little is done by the parent. Do you not know, fond parent, that the child is given only a certain number of years in which to prepare to meet the world? To be sure, it is only older than the child, and should give the child the benefit of your greater experience.

Artists to Have $500,000 House

CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—A "colony house" that will keep Chicago artists from going to New York to be built here at a cost of $500,000.

The building will have studios, apartments, restaurants and a roof garden where painters can sketch and painters get inspiration from the stars. Benjamin Maxwell, an architect, will finance and build the colony that will take the artists out of garrets and lodging houses. He will have the aid of several of Chicago's "arrived" artists.

The building, which will be ten stories high and of French suggestion, will surround a court. It will contain fifty-five studios and apartments, and the first floor will be devoted to shops and French restaurants.

An auditorium, to be used as a "little theater," is also included in the plans. It will seat 500 persons, and will serve as a place for coming playwrights and unknown actors to develop their ideas.

"It will be a place for work and play," said Mr. Marshall today. "We will have the works of Chicago painters there. Our young men will have studios, and there will be discussions on art and poetry."

This is not for the layman who would like to acquire dignity by living in an artistic atmosphere. Mr. Marshall continued: "No one except artists, earnest artists will want to live there."

"The idea is to keep local artists from going to New York, where several have migrated in the last year simply because they couldn't find a place and an interest. Chicago artists will cling together, for this will give them a common meeting place and an interest that will only them as a group."

NOT SORRY FOR SELF SHE WINS OUT

By Winifred Black

Copyright, 1922, by Winifred Black

THERE she sat in the judge's seat in one of the great national commissions, dignified, calm, handsome—the best type of American woman.

She wore a simple dress simply made but very becoming. It was opened a bit at the throat and there was a line of soft lace just visible.

Her hair was done in the simple knot so that the shape of her beautiful head was plainly to be seen. She listened to their stories with kindly sympathy—for she, too, once lived in a little apartment and dreamed to see the money she could save. There was one little boy already, and perhaps a second.

"I know, I know," said the woman who sat on the commission. She did know, and she cared, and the little woman in rusty black whispered to her that her husband was dead—not long—her eyes filled as she said it, though she tried ever so bravely to keep back the tears.

And there was special need just now, she whispered, for all the money she could save. There was one little boy already, and perhaps a second. "I know, I know," said the woman who sat on the commission. She did know, and she cared, and the little woman in rusty black whispered to her that her husband was dead—not long—her eyes filled as she said it, though she tried ever so bravely to keep back the tears.

She was in black then, herself, and her husband was dead. She was in black then, herself, and her husband was dead. She was in black then, herself, and her husband was dead. She was in black then, herself, and her husband was dead.

Self-Esteem

Self-Esteem is the best protection of self-esteem. In Self-Esteem itself. In other words, you must secure it in the government of your conduct by assuring it full sway, and not allow its rule to be usurped by false pride or egotism.

Often we are self-deluded into thinking that the way in which we live is almost fatally reached, when really it is our pride that has been hurt or our vanity that is wounded.

If we know ourselves well and respect ourselves properly, such wounds are only scratches. To you to know your own self and learn whether your self-esteem is in working order by the way in which you live. If you resent such criticism, probably your conceit and your pride are demanding pay for overvaluing your self-esteem. You are loafing on the job.

If you are grateful for the criticism, even though it makes you wince, your self-esteem is normal. You are wise enough to extract the shaft of criticism without mischief, and as an appreciated revelation of a weak link in the armor of your personality.

That is the only way to take advantage of criticism. Accept it as a challenge to be faithful to your duty, as a stimulus to self-examination.

Your critic may not mean to be a benefactor. Blatant criticism is tipped with the poison of envy or malice. But if you do not convert his malice into benefit, if you will frankly follow the direction of criticism where you are vulnerable and therefore subject to strengthening and improvement.

So he is, without intention, your good friend. He is killing him, you are confusedly weaker than even this seeming enemy had thought. Perhaps, it is too much to expect you to be large-souled and humble enough to say, like Job of old, "even though he slay me, yet will I live."

Never will you easily be magnanimous enough to recognize the friendly service brought by his seeming or blundered hostility. And yet, in that way alone lies the truest path to friendship. A friend is likely to hurt your feelings with his frankness, or to risk the loss of your friendship. Others are restrained by the instinct of sympathy. They accept their criticism the more servilely.

If your nature needs the sweet savor of praise or the drugging fragrance of flattery, you are always at the mercy of those who will not fail to use this means to your ultimate ruin. If, on the other hand, you know yourself and if your self-esteem is based on your own merits, you are free for harsh unsympathetic and cruel attacks, and thereby escape their aid towards self-correction.

It may appear a bit unkind to suggest that much praise and flattery are distant from the truth, or that they are the perfunctory offering of indifference or the insouciant tribute of the self-admiring egotist. It is not. It is the earnest of candor and revelation.

Therefore, don't let your good friend, the critic, hurt you. Let your self-esteem be transparent and true.

DO NOT KILL THE CRITIC, YOUR GOOD FRIEND

By Dr. Charles Fleischer

I likely to be sub-human, with too much of the alphabet, or the philosopher in your composition, and insensitive therefore to many of the finer meanings of life.

If you are thin-skinned, you will need to be nearly superhuman. In order not to try to endure the normal cuticle, neither too thick nor too thin, you must be able to stand the most persistent pluckings and the slight, but steady stings which with persons and things eventually manage to penetrate you.

These who become fairly wise in the world of values are apt to put on a little extra covering, so that the sting may not be too readily reached by unfriendly contact of deliberate assault.

Such added armor saves you from much mental anguish and safeguards the citadel of your self-esteem.

There is the big world in our vocabulary. Self-Esteem is really the one precious possession of the rich and the poor. When you are robbed of Self-Esteem, then you are poor indeed!

You can afford to be generous, even the low of your good name—though both of these experiences mean dire deprivation—but without Self-Esteem life really is not worth the living.
